

Farmer

that's what it's all about

Fundamentals

The apprenticeship training to become a farmer is an exciting journey into the world of agriculture. If you love nature, want to work outdoors, and are committed to sustainable nutrition, it is exactly right for you. You will learn to cultivate fields, care for animals, and use modern technology – and you actively contribute to producing food and preserving nature. The work is varied, team-oriented, and you make an important contribution for everyone. Start now in a future-proof industry that sustainably shapes our world. Become part of it!

From sowing to harvest – you accompany the entire field cycle and can see every bit of progress grow directly. And of course your safety comes first – you learn and apply safe, responsible working practices daily. Together you shape the future of agriculture – sustainable, innovative, and full of possibilities.
